To the banale and eternal question, 'How are you?" the wise old man allows himself but one answer, "I am very well." He knows perfectly well that his innocent deception, if deception it be, deceives no one. Perhaps it is well that he does not realize, for of self consciousness we have enough and to spare, that the remembrance of his fortitude, pigeon-years in the mind of the listener, may come forth one day to hearten that same listener along the cruel way when it shall be his turn to tread it. For so are accounts carried forward and not always to the wrong side of the page, and if it is true that the sins of the parents are visited on the children it is equally true that the laster of their virtues thmes on long after the darkness

They Remembered Him.

A circumstance happened in connection with the failure in business of a well known inhabitant of Yorkshire which caused much amusement. The bankrupt was asked the momentous question, "What are you prepared to offer?" and in reply stated that he had no assets whatever. "What is there now, Joe?" asked a jolly looking creditor. "Nothing," replied the bankrupt.

"Well, you can sing. Come, sing us a soug. Jee fumbled with his hat and said he hardly liked to sing.

"Come, strike up," exclaimed the creditor; "I-t's have something for our trass." Thus piged, Joe cleared his threat and began the ballad "And You'll Reverber Me." As the plain tive includy tell on the cors of the credities some of them began to feel indignant, but the humor of the situation at I had but tayon they and the final heavens, the tract laughter. The Guillotine.

The striking thing about the execution was the appalling quickness of it all. Action was so rapid from the instant the condemued appeared in the doorway of the prison to the moment the knife fell that it was almost impossible to distinguish the slight chain of incidents. He flung himself eagerly against the plank, was strapped to it, and in the flash of a glance the plank was pushed forward on the platform of a chillatina An instant a recumbent figure, face downward. In the same moment a head, with two staring, wide open eyes, whirled almost defiantly, as it seemed, and with a slight zigzag movement to the rightward, while simultaneously the pinioned body rolled inert, convulsive, into the capacions basket, also at the right hand side of the guillotine. The swiftness. the mechanical promptness of the business, fairly stupefied the spectator. It was impossible to realize that a human life had ended in less time than it would take to draw a full breath. The guillotine had done its work well. There was scarcely a sense of horror in the sight. -New York World.

A Vivid Imagination. Robert Collyer tells the story of a little girl with a vivid imagination which constantly led her into amazing extravagances regarding things which she claimed to have seen. One day after an extraordinary exhibition of her inventive powers her mother exclaimed in despair: "Oh, my dear, my dear, my dear! Don't you know that Ananias and Sapphira fell down dead on account of the his they told? Don't you remember that terrible story?" "Oh, yes," responded the child, unabashed. H. J. BERRY. C. NOVACOVICH, Dated Reno, Nevada, March 31, 1894. To the Citizens of Reno, Friends and Former Patrons—Having decided to engage in another and different pursuit which will require my whole time and attention, it became necessary for me to retire from the business of merchandising. In so doing, I desire, in this public manner, to return sincere thanks to all for the very generous patronage which the late tirm of Berry & Novacovich has at all times received, and earnestly solicits a continuance of the same for Mr. Novacovich, who will continue the business.

"The Republicans, encouraged by their victories in the East, will reform ship of Colcord and Bartine and make a desperate effort to regain the ground lost in 1892. They will point with pride, as usual, to the record of their party on the silver question. Their campaign orators will go about the State, and, with the same old arguments, attempt to make the people believe that upon the necess of the Republican party depends the future prosperity of the country. They will throw truth and rights to the winds, and seek by all the arts known to politicians to deceive the people once more. If successful in their schemes. Nevada will be placed firmly in the Republican column and the cause of free coinage will receive a setback from which it will take years to recover.

"While the Independent has been earnest in its advocacy of Democratic principles, and now believes in the fundamental principles of that party, the free coinage and use of both gold and silver as money, it is forced to acthat party are in league with the enemies of silver and opposed to the solemn pledges of their National platform. They prefer to follow Republican leadpeople that placed them in power.

of my hand. During the attacks, the perspiration would stand in drops on my face, and it was agony for me to make sufficient effort even to whisper. They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from thirty minutes to half a day, leaving as suddenly; but, for several days after, I was quite prostrated and sore. Sometimes the attacks were almost daily, then less frequent. After about four years of this suffering, I was taken down with bilious typhoid fever, and when I began to recover, I had the worst attack of my old trouble I ever experienced. At the first of the lever, my mother gave me Ayer's Pills, my doctor recommending them as being better than anything he could prepare. I continued taking these Pills, and so great was the benefit derived that during nearly thirty years I have had but one attack of my former trouble, which

WEATHER BULLETIN.

Storm Wave Due-Positive and Negative.

Copyrighted 1891 by W. T. Foster. St. Joseph, Mo., April 21.-My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from April 22d to the 26th, and the next will: reach the Pacific coast about the 27th, cross the western mountains by the close of the 28th, the Great Central valleys from the 29th to May 1st, and the Eastern States about May 2d.

This disturbance will be at its great est force in the Eastern States about May 2d or 3d, and more than the usual amount of rainfall may be expected. This storm will endanger shipping on the Great Lakes and the Atlantic coast.

The first storm wave of May will reach the Pacific coast about May 2d, cross the western mountains by the close of the 3d, the Great Central valleys from the 4th to 6th, and the Eastern States about the 7th.

This disturbance will develop extreme temperatures, dangerous storms, possibly tornadoes, and will have unusual force in its entire journey of four or five days across the continent.

Rainfall will not be general, but heavy down-pours will occur in places. Over the greater portion of the country strong symptoms of drouth will accompany this storm wave and moisture will rapidly evaporote from the Warm waves will cross the western mountains about April 27th, and May 2d, the Great Central valleys April 29th and May 4th, the Lastern States about May 1st and 6th. Cool waves will cross the western mountains about April 30th and May 5th, the Great Central valleys about May 2d and 7th, and the Eastern States about May 4th and

May will average warmer than usual The first half will average more above the normal temperature than the last half. Rainfall of the month will be about the general average in the Great Central valleys and the Eastern States, except within two hundred miles east of the Rocky mountains, where rainfall will be below the general average. Most rain will fall during the last half of the month. The hottest weather will occur in front of the storm wave that will cross the continent from the 9th to 13th, moving eastward. These illustrations will explain the one fluid theory of electricity. The terms positive and negative are used in connection with both theories, but in the theory here adopted, plus (+) and minus (--) are better terms because they convey correct ideas as to the real nature of electricity.

In the ordinary magnets, electricity usually enters at a certain point constantly, and that point is called the minus or negative part of the magnet, and as constantly it leaves the magnet at another point called the plus or positive end of the magnet. These points can be changed, however, by a reverse artificial current through the magnet.

When a drouth prevails over a section of country, the currents are coming from space and entering the earth. A CUSTOM THAT WILL ENDURE AS LONG AS THE NAVY ENDURES.

Drinking the Toast to "Sweethearts and Wives" Every Saturday Night-It Makes the Men In the Navy Better, Truer, Nobler and Braver.

The people of this country are very fond of their naval officers, so far as they know them. It would be a good deal better for the country if they were better known, for among them are to be found as large a percentage of fine, brainy, lovable and well bred men as in any of the familiar professions.

There is not much sentimentality in the navy, but there is a deal of sentiment, which is a vastly different thing. Certain cynical young women who have met officers and who have noticed how attentive they are sometimes think that this 1.1 merely a "dainty, sham devotion," bestowed upon young women whom they meet at every port they touch. But this is not true. There is more genuine chivalry among the officers of the United States navy than is to be found among any class of men on shore.

It is one of the conventions of the navy to place women upon a pedestal, and there is no finer convention in the world. It may be because that for so much of their time they are denied the delight of seeing women. But they never forget them.

Every Saturday night in every United States warship afloat there takes place a ceremony so beautiful, so exquisite, that it seems to have escaped from the land of chivalry and wandered into American life. There, flattered and amazed at its welcome, it has remained ever since and made the men in the navy better, truer, nobler and braver, for it must be confeesed that the officers are, first of all, splendidly American. When a ship is under way, there is no woman aboard her. She has no place there. Maybe each man carries an image of one in his thoughts during his watches on deck. Of these things he does not speak. But once each week he comes forth boldly with his fellows and reverently sends greeting from across the seas to her. From the China sea, from stormy Cape Horn, from the peaceful Mediterranean comes the message.

"Sweethearts and wives!" That was ever and always will be the sailor's toast. And when it is given aboard Uncle Sam's ships it is a tribute to the sweetness, the purity, the beauty of American womanhood. There are men who have drunk that toast every Saturday night for more than 40 years. It is never old to them. The officers would as soon think of passing unnoticed an important disciplinary regulation as passing Saturday night without this ceremony. It does not mat-ter whether the ship is on the high seas, or anchored in a foreign port, or lying at the dock in the Brooklyn navy yard, so long as her men are aboard they drink the toast. It is a custom as old as the navy. It will endure as long as the navy endures.

When the supply of wine is running short during a long cruise, the officers deny themselves during the week that they may have it for this toast on Saturday nights.

The servants are well trained. They have the champagne nicely chilled and open it almost without orders. After the dinner is finished the executive officer arises. Very likely there is gray in his hair. His face is reddened by weather and seamed by years, for men who ch nosition canto heart is still young. They have dined well, and the content of well filled stomachs shines on their faces. But when the heutenant commander rises they are still: He stands straight with his hand upraised, the champagne bubbling deliciously.

"Gentlemen, are your glasses charged?" There is not one which is empty. The officers rise and bow their heads in an-

"I give you" (the lieutenant commander speaks earnestly, and there is a soft glimmer in his eyes)-"I give you sweethearts and wives. God bless them!" "Sweethearts and wives-God bless them!" comes in chorus from the officers. Then they drink, and if there runs down their spinal cords a little thrill, and if their eyes grow mount and their hands shake a bit it is a tribute to themselves RENO, NEVADA | and to American womanhood to whom this toast is drunk. With something in their breasts throbbing like the great engines, and the swish and gurgle of the waters dulling their ears, there is conjured before them, like the azure nimbus of a dream, a home with a soft voiced woman and the prattle of a child, or a slender, girlish figure bending her head to hide the love light in her eyes. On Saturday night the officer at sea feels that he is very near home.

Every one knows that naval officers are famous for the attractions which they have for the fair. This may show that it isn't the uniform alone which is the magnet.-New York World.

The Forger. Sir John Evans says, in Longman's Magazine, "that not even the trained antiquary is proof against the forger and confesses that not only has he himself purchased forgeries, but has published accounts of them as if they had been genuine-accounts which any amount of subsequent withdrawals fails to annihilate. Counterfeits and forgeries abound in every department of archæology.. Spurious manuscripts, inscriptions, gems, pottery, glass, enamels, ivories, coins weapons, implements and armaments have each and all been foisted on collect-

ENGLISH PRIDE SHOCKED.

Corruption In Army Circles Uncarthed and

Pet Officers Under Arrest.

It used to be a cardinal article of an Englishman's faith that his army, if small, was of the very best quality, and that its administrators, from the commander in chief down to the humblest subalteru officer, were incorruptible. The latter belief received a rude shock recently when the Woolwich arsenal was proved to be a hothed of corruption, and a clean sweep had to be made of some of its teading eneers. The faith which survived that blow has now again been sorely tried. Officers Loch and Library, In charge of the son department armory nt the tower, Latingham, have been planuel a nick mire, a and will be tried by comptonical all most vicels. The charges are systematic blackmailing extending over a number of years and frauds of the Probblest and most unmilitary character. The tower is virtually a training school for regimental armorers, and no noncommissioned officer could hope to obtain the rank of armorer without a certificate of competency signed by Loch and Murray. It is alleged that these trusted officers extorted money as the price of every certificate and also had a secret system whereby every workman applying for work and every souther desiring promotion had to pay sums ranging iron shillings to pounds. The incriminated officers have long been living far beyond their visible means, but the malpractices were not suspected until a few months ago, when the war department in London began to receive anonymous letters purporting to be written by fleeced victims. The secretary of war was unwilling to take cognizance of anonymous accusations against the honor of reputable officers, but the charges became so persistent and categorical that he decided to investigate them, and Colonel King Harman was sout to Birmingham/ With the assistance of the local police he soon obtained sufficient evidence to justify the arrests. The curious feature of the case is that Colonel Nuttall, commander in chief of the tower, was not arrested also for shameful neglect of his duties.—London Cor. New York Sun.

How He Explained It. The affable young man was doing the polite to the very swagger young woman at a reception, and she was tolerating him because no swagger young man was in sight.

"May I escort you to the dining room?" he asked. She hesitated and drew back. "I'm sorry," she began.
"Thanks," he interrupted and disap-

"I didn't know I said it, really."

" Tell, you did," she persisted, "and I went to know why." "I presume," he responded, "it was e caso er uncenscious gratefulness." And he got away with some degree of

SUMMONS,

The District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for Washoe Co. The State of Nevada sends to John A. Gurges greeting: You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendant by Elia C. Garges as plaintiff in the District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for the county of Washoe, and answer the service on you of this summons (exclusive of the day of service), if served in said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, but within said district, and in all other cases forty days; or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. This action is brought to recover a judgment and decree of this court dissolving the bonds of matrimony between you and the plaintiff, on the grounds that on the lith day of January, A. D. 1833, you wilfully, and without any cause, deserted and abandoned the plaintiff, without sufficient cause or reason and against her will and consent Plaintiff alleging that you intermarried with plaintiff at Johnson county, Missouri, on the 12th day of January, A. D. 1831, and have ever since been husband and wife; that she is now and for more than one year last past she has been a resident of Washoe county, Nevada; that there are three minor children living the issue of said marriage. Plaintiff also demands that the custody of said minor children be awarded to her, and that she recover her costs, etc.

All of which will appear more fully from the complaint, which is on file in the office of the Clore of said court at Reno, in said county, and to which you are especially referred. And you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint the plaintiff will apply to the court for trelief demanded.

In Witness wheelef, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said court at Reno, this 10th day of February, A. D. 1894.

O. EVANS, Clerk of the District Court of the state of Nevada, in and for Washoe county.
